

3.B.1.

Purpose:

The University of Connecticut School of Medicine is responsible for the overall administration of residency training programs. To that end, the Program Director of each residency program is required to establish mechanisms to systematically review the competence of each resident consistent with the "General Requirements of the Essentials of Accredited Residencies in Graduate Medical Education" of the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education, and the "Special Requirements for Residency Training," of the Residency Review Committee (or other accrediting standards) for that discipline.
